HERE is official photo released by the U. S. Navy on the Midway island sea and air battle June 3-6 in which the U. S. delivered a crushing blow to the Jap fleet. The Navy announcement said 20 Jap ships were sunk or damaged in the battle. The U. S. lost the destroyer Hammann. The U. S. aircraft carrier Yorktown was damaged and "put out of action." Four Jap aircraft carriers were sunk. The map, released by the Navy, charts the battle. At top left is Admiral Chester L. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and top right, the late Maj. Gen. C. L. Tinker, commander of the Army Air Force in Hawaii, killed on duty. Both were singled out for their direction of the attack. Map sequence follows: 1—Many Jap ships sighted by Navy patrol planes morning of June 3; 2—Jap ships attacked by flying fortresses at noon of June 3. Hits on cruisers and transports; 3—Navy patrol planes scored hits in night torpedo attack; 10—Fleeing Jap ships attacked by Marine dive bombers and flying fortresses morning and afternoon of June 5. Several hits on cruisers; 11, 12, 13—Carrier dive bombers made repeated attacks on fleeing Jap ships. Two cruisers and two destroyers sunk; 4—Jap striking force consisting of three carriers, battleships, cruisers and destroyers. Air attack on Midway launched by this force early morning June 4. Attacked by Army and Marine bombers and torpedo planes morning June 4; 5—Carrier dive bombers and torpedo planes attacked three carriers and two battleships, leaving three carriers aflame, helpless, and stopped, one battleship a mass of flames, one destroyer sunk; 6—Carrier Soryu attacked by U. S. submarine, left sinking; 7—Fourth and last Japanese carrier attacked on afternoon of June 4 by carrier dive bombers, Hiryo crippled, sinking later, two battleships damaged, one cruiser hit, U. S. obtains mastery of air; 8—Army flying fortresses attack damaged enemy ships late afternoon of June 4, hit one carrier, battleship and heavy cruiser, destroyer sunk; 9—Remnants of Jap force escaping in bad weather area.

U.S. NAVY REVEALS GREATEST VICTORY

Jap Defeat At Midway Costs Four Plane Carriers, Loss Of 16 Other War Craft

WASHINGTON, July 15—The Navy's official summary on the battle of Midway left no doubt today it was the greatest sea victory in American history and at the same time disclosed that within recent weeks U. S. defenses in the Pacific as well as on the west coast from Alaska to Panama have been reinforced.

Japanese losses in the furious three-day battle in the mid-Pacific were listed by the Navy communiqué at four aircraft carriers sunk and at least 16 other warships and auxiliary vessels destroyed or damaged, against U. S. losses of one destroyer sunk and the carrier Yorktown "put out of action."

In addition, Japanese personnel losses were set at 4,800 killed or drowned against 307 American officers and men lost, and enemy plane losses were put at 275 while this nation apparently lost 33.

Tucked away in the battle report was the statement that prior to the Midway battle, American officials anticipated a Nipponese attack in force possibly on Hawaii, Alaska, the Panama Canal or even the Pacific coast — and that preparations were made accordingly.

Strategy Told

Indicating the brilliant strategy which led to the complete rout of an enemy invasion force of at least 80 ships, the communiqué said:

"The enemy had learned in the battle of the Coral Sea that the sea approaches to Australia were strongly defended. It appeared logical, therefore, to assume that the enemy's next thrust would come in some other area—possibly Hawaii, Alaska, the Panama Canal zone, or even the Pacific coast of the United States."

"In accordance with this estimate, United States naval surface forces were deployed in the area between Midway and the Aleutian Islands. Bases in the outlying islands (presumably in the mid-Pacific) were reinforced by long-range, shore-based aircraft. Similar precautionary measures also were taken on the Pacific coast and in the vicinity of the Panama Canal."

Despite the fact that since the battle of Midway the Nipponese have occupied the Aleutian Islands of Attu and Kiska, naval experts have contended that the smashing American victory in the mid-Pacific gave the U. S. virtual mastery of the vast ocean area from Dutch Harbor to Australia.

Chart Gives Picture

A battle chart issued by the Navy communiqué gave a clear picture of how American forces set the trap for the Japanese defeat off Midway with an onslaught that may have paved the

900 NATIONALS OF AXIS AT SEA ON EXCHANGE CRAFT

NEW YORK, July 15—The diplomatic exchange ship Drottningholm, loaded to the gunwales with more than 900 axis nationals, steamed today toward the dark continent of Europe.

The axis nationals were mostly Germans and Italians and a few Romanians, Bulgarians and Hungarians who had been interned here.

The Drottningholm sailed from Jersey City before midnight. She had made two voyages to the United States with United Nations nationals under an agreement with the axis powers assuring her safe passage. Her present passage was made without that formal agreement as Germany arrogated it when the Nazis demanded that the Drottningholm sail from a southern port instead of New York.

FRENCH WILLING TO MOVE SHIPS TO SAFER HAVEN

LONDON, July 15—Commanders of French warships at Alexandria agreed to take their ships to an unnamed British port when the great eastern Mediterranean base was threatened by axis forces a few weeks ago, Reuters' news agency reported today.

The Vichy government, however, has officially rejected two proposals by President Roosevelt for removal of the ships to safe haven.

Data Shows Industries In Big Role

C. Of C. Covering Aeronautics Pleased

WASHINGTON, July 15—The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce today said that the aircraft manufacturing industry has increased its annual production rate 1,500 percent in the first 33 months of World War II.

Impressive testimony of the industry's accomplishment is given by President Roosevelt's announcement that 4,000 warplanes which were produced in May, and also by the House military affairs committee which, in a report on its investigation of the war program, cited many recent occasions when several types of planes have shown the superiority of American aircraft in combat, the Chamber said.

"In August, 1939, the last month before the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, only 250 warplanes were produced in the United States," the Chamber said. "The last announced production figure prior to Mr. Roosevelt's 4,000 a month statement was for September, 1941, when 1,900 warplanes rolled off the aircraft industry's assembly lines. This was a 700 percent increase in 24 months. Yet in the next eight months, the industry more than doubled its monthly output."

"That was the industry's response to the President's request for an annual production of 50,000 airplanes which he later increased to 60,000 in 1942 and 125,000 in 1943."

OHIO VALLEY TO HAVE BLACKOUT TEST THIS WEEK

COLUMBUS, July 15 — Cities and towns on both sides of the Ohio river from East Liverpool south to Bellaire will undergo a blackout test Friday night, the Ohio State Defense Council announced today.

The proposed blackout, according to Major Charles S. Miller, army liaison officer in Ohio, is the largest yet scheduled in the Fifth Corps Area, embracing Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky.

East Liverpool is 48 miles from Bellaire and the population of the Ohio valley on both sides of the river is approximately 750,000.

Army officials said the test will determine whether the Ohio river could aid enemy air planes in reaching vital target areas.

East Liverpool, Wellsville, all of Jefferson county, Martins Ferry, Bridgeport, Brookside and Bellaire will participate in the test on the Ohio side of the river, while Brook, Ohio, Marshall and Hancock counties will blackout in West Virginia.

Arthur Wilkes' Estate Distribution Aids Berger

With distribution Wednesday of the estate of the late Arthur C. Wilkes, the city of Circleville receives $5,000 which is bequeathed to Berger Hospital.

Mr. Wilkes, who died July 22, 1940 stipulated in his will, admitted to probate July 25, 1940, that $5,000 be given to the hospital and invested in any type of transaction which council deemed safe and profitable. Semi-annual payments of interest or profits on the investment are to be given to Berger hospital for current operating expenses. This deed was assumed as a memorial to Mr. Wilkes' deceased wife, Fannie Wilkes.

Other beneficiaries under the will are Forest cemetery, $500, to

Populace Joins Russian Troops In Street Fight

Eight German Army Corps In Action On Southern End Of 70-Mile Front That Spreads Between Stalino, Taganrog

MOSCOW CALLS FOR HELP OF ALLIES

Soviet Struggle Is Really In Defense Of New York And London, Reds Claim; Rommel Makes New Move In Egypt

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Fighting around Voronezh on the upper reaches of the river Don was described today by military observers as "the bitterest battle in history" with thousands of tanks, hundreds of planes and tens of thousands of troops battling incessantly.

As Moscow admitted fighting was in progress in the streets of Voronezh, another big German push was apparently developing on the extreme southern end of the front between Stalino and Taganrog on the Sea of Azov.

Stockholm reports said eight German Army Corps, possibly 300,000 to 400,000 men, had gone into action on the 70-mile front, and that Nazi spearheads moving along the Sea of Azov shore had reached Rovenski at the eastern end of the sea.

Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, lies a bare 20 miles ahead.

Meantime, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko launched a determined counter-attack on the German left flank on the upper Don to relieve pressure on the slowly retreating southern armies and the embattled defenders of Voronezh who were reported making a last-ditch stand. Civilians as well as Soviet troops fought the enemy from rooftops and behind street barricades as German planes "filled the skies" over the town and the air "echoed dizzily with the screaming, shrieking of the battleplanes," according to the government newspaper Izvestia.

Fierce Battles Raging

The official Soviet communiqué issued today reported fierce engagements around Voronezh and south of Boguchar, 140 miles to the southeast. In the Boguchar area it was admitted that Soviet forces had withdrawn eastward to new positions.

But dispatches from the front told of bloody fighting in many sectors of the winding battle line, twisting like a mighty python through the fertile valley of the Don.

As the Russians fought desperately to stem the advance of the Nazi hordes, the Moscow radio announcer, whose utterances may be given a certain official status, called on Britain and the United States to open a second front in Europe.

"A second front must be created," the Moscow radio declared. "This will entail great sacrifices on the part of British and American peoples, but their sacrifices would be much

COURT UPHOLDS COMMUNIST BAN ON OHIO BALLOT

COLUMBUS, July 15 — State supreme court today dismissed the appeal of the Ohio Communist party from a finding of Secretary of State John E. Sweeney denying it a place on the ballot in the November election.

The high court held that the filing of an appeal with the secretary of state within the time allotted was a pre-requisite to an appeal to the supreme court. No appeal had been filed with Sweeney who had ruled the party ineligible on the ground that it had engaged in un-American activities.

Except for Judge Gilbert Bennett who did not participate, the vote was unanimous.

TRIAL METHODS FOR 14 ACCUSED SPIES STUDIED

WASHINGTON, July 15—Raising the prospect that a son may testify against his parents and husband against his wife, Justice department officials today were conducting a series of conferences to determine the procedure for prosecuting the 14 alleged contacts of the eight Nazi saboteurs now on trial for their lives before a military commission.

While the saboteur trial entered its seventh day with the admission that it still would be "several days" before it ends, Attorney General Francis Biddle and Wendell Berge, chief of the criminal division of the Justice department, conducted meetings to map plans for trial of the 14 accomplices.

The fact that Biddle called District Attorney J. Albert Woll, of Chicago, District Attorney Matthias F. Correa of New York City, and District Attorney Harold M. Kennedy of Brooklyn to Washington indicated that civil court trials may be ordered.

TAX BILL WILL REQUIRE THIRD OF U. S. INCOME

House Reports On Its New War Revenue Measure; "Care Exercised"

PEAK 32 BILLIONS A YEAR

Even With More Money, U. S. Treasury Shortage Will Be 52 Million For '43

WASHINGTON, July 15—Making public its report on the new war revenue measure, the House ways and means committee declared today that the total federal and state tax bill of the American people will rise to a new peak of $32,000,000,000 a year—"almost one-third of the present national income."

The measure, calling for $6,144,000,000 in annual revenues, according to the report, will produce only $4,028,000,000 from 1942 incomes, because some of the taxes cannot be imposed for the full year. Corporation and individual income taxes, however, will be deducted as of January 1, 1942.

The report declared that "care had been exercised in every instance not to place an unbearable burden on any taxpayer. In this respect the additional burdens of the increased rates in existing taxes and of new taxes have been carefully examined."

Knutson Dissents
Differing with this view, Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., a member of the committee, announced that he had voted against approving the bill because, in his opinion, normal and surtax rates for corporations (Continued on Page Eight)

LEADER OF BUND IN OHIO FACES TRIAL IN EAST

CLEVELAND, July 15—Joseph Belohlavek, alleged leader of the German-American Bund in Cleveland, today awaited transfer from Cuyahoga county jail, where he has been held for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to federal district court in New York City.

Arrested by the FBI a week ago on charges of conspiracy to violate the Selective Service and Alien Registration acts, Belohlavek was bound over to the New York court by U. S. Commissioner E. D. Nicola to stand trial with 53 other Bund leaders. He told reporters that he joined the Bund because it was "only a singing society."

STORES TO JOIN IN HEROES' DAY PLANNED FRIDAY

July 17 Is Designated For Intense War Bond And Stamp Campaign

COOPERATION IS ASKED

"Words Will Not Buy Arms, Supplies," Merchants Declare

Friday, July 17, Circleville merchants will observe American Heroes' Day by making a 100 percent effort to stimulate War Stamp and Bond sales.

Climaxing the July Retailers for Victory campaign, the event will be national in scope with all local merchants cooperating. During July the government has set a national quota on Bond sales of one billion dollars of which the local share is $45,000.

In announcing their plans for promoting sales on Heroes' Day, the retailers have made a plea for all residents to buy Stamps or Bonds in any downtown store. The day has been set aside by 1,600,000 merchants in the country to honor all youths in the armed forces.

The retailers have noted that "this is not to be a word tribute but an action tribute to all Pickaway county men who are serving on the battle front." Words won't buy the guns the boys need to fight the enemy; words won't buy the clothing that protects their health; words won't buy planes, guns, tanks, ships, gas masks, trucks, ammunition and bombs, all of which are needed if the war effort is to be a success.

In the last month the county has seen a drop in buying with bond sales falling 50 percent. Retailers will devote much of their time Friday in an effort to help meet the July quota and urge everyone to inspect their project arrangements in each individual store.

FOUR GUERNSEY SESSIONS WILL COVER ALL OHIO

K. C. Sly, manager, McDonald farms, Cortland, N. Y., and Earl N. Shultz, American Guernsey Cattle Club, will act as official judge and director respectively in charge of the four district Guernsey judging schools to be held in Ohio on July 28, 29, 30 and 31.

The schools have been scheduled at the farms of four leading herds of the state as follows:

July 28: Southwestern Ohio, A. E. Anderson Farm, Glendale, on Ohio route 747 six miles north of Glendale.

July 29: Central Ohio, Ringgold farm, Robert Musser, owner, four miles east of Circleville, just off U. S. 22.

July 30: Northwestern Ohio, Fireside Farms, H. J. Ziegler, owner, seven miles southwest of Bellevue, 15 miles northwest of Tiffin on state route 18.

July 31: Northeastern Ohio, Franchester Farm, Charles B. Bolton, owner, Lyndhurst, Ohio, on Ohio route 175, Richmond Road, between Cedar and Mayfield Roads.

The purpose of the judging schools will be to familiarize breeders, county agents, vocational agriculture teachers, and their wives, with the official Guernsey type and to give training in judging dairy cattle. Ladies are invited and urged to attend.

The program will start at ten o'clock in the morning with a special type study of an aged cow class. Bring a pot luck picnic lunch to be served at 12:15. Placings will be made, reasons given, and a discussion of four additional classes in the afternoon.

The Ohio Guernsey Breeders' Association will furnish prizes to be awarded to the three highest contestants in a judging contest to be held at each school.

All Guernsey breeders within the respective areas with their friends including county agents and vo-ag teachers are cordially invited and urged to attend. Groups should bunch up and fill all cars.

Ohio State University Discloses Form For Entering Army Reserve

Because scores of Pickaway county boys are inquiring about the new Army Reserve Corps plan now in operation at Ohio State university and other colleges, Ohio State officials have outlined the procedure to be followed.

The new plan, open to qualified applicants 18 years of age or over, has been set up by the Army to permit college students to enlist now in all branches, including Air Corps, but to complete their college courses before being called to active service—barring military emergency.

To enlist in the Army Reserve, the student must: Carry the number of hours considered a normal schedule in his college.

Be enrolled in the university throughout the normal school year of at least three quarters.

Do the quality of work that is considered standard in his college and that required for him to remain enrolled in the university.

Have the consent of his parents or guardian, in writing and notarized, if he is under 21 years of age.

Have a release from his Draft Board on DSS Form 190.

Satisfactorily pass the prescribed physical examination.

Apply in writing for enlistment on a blank form which may be obtained from the university military department.

Similar requirements apply at all other colleges participating in the plan, Ohio State officials say. The present Ohio State quota for such enlistments is 1,795 men.

Denman C. McCollister of Williamsport who has been with the United States Army Air Force at Keesler field, Miss., has been transferred to the training school for airplane mechanics at New Orleans, La. He is the nephew of Mrs. Joe West of Columbus, formerly of Williamsport.

Jack Bowman of Columbus, nephew of Mrs. George Barch, Circleville route 3, has enlisted in the Air Corps training school at Patterson field, Dayton. The youth has made numerous visits to this city and is widely known in local circles.

Private Ross Hamilton of Jackson township has returned to Syracuse, New York, where he is in training for the air corps. Mrs. Hamilton accompanied her husband to the Air Corps camp and will remain in New York for the remainder of the summer.

Corporal David Porter of Camp Grant, Ill., has returned to his camp after a visit of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Porter of Kingston.

Siebert E. Duvall, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Duvall of near Ashville, has enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps at Patterson field, Fairfield. He reported Monday for duty.

Elmer E. Kennedy, 65, died Tuesday at his home near Amanda. He was born in Hocking county March 19, 1867, a son of William and Elizabeth Kennedy, both of whom were natives of Ireland.

Surviving are his widow, Almeda, and two daughters, Mrs. Rancie Poling of near Stoutsville and Mrs. Frank Clendennen of near Amanda.

Funeral will be Friday at 2:30 p. m. in the Amanda Methodist church, the Rev. A. L. Donely of Osborn officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi, by the Defenbaugh funeral home.

WPA JOINING IN SCRAP EFFORTS

Farm-To-Farm Visits Begin Wednesday For Important Waste Materials

Pickaway county "Salvage for Victory" committee began a concerted drive Wednesday to bring into useful service every piece of scrap metal and rubber now lying unused on farms throughout the county.

In cooperation with Robert O. Weible, executive secretary for Ohio of the general salvage division, the special drive for scrap metal and rubber is conducted by the WPA.

Sponsored by the War Production Board and the Reserve Metals Administration, the WPA Scrap Salvage project will send men and trucks to visit every farm so as to quickly gather all available scrap and move it directly into the war effort. WPA trucks, properly marked, will be used to haul salvage materials and WPA employees will load and weigh the material. Owners of such materials will be given a receipt showing weight of the scrap. The United States Treasury will then mail out a check to pay for all such scrap collected.

Farmers are asked not to include tin cans, rags or waste paper in their salvage as all effort is to be exerted in the collection of the more critical materials.

William Ogan, a soldier, home over on 104, is here from Pine Camp, N. J., for a couple days visit. Has been in the service five months. Says the eats are good. Has gained in weight 24 pounds and still on the up.

Up to Tuesday evening, the Cooper gas and service station had collected in and weighed out 19,000 pounds of rubber and yet at it though stocks everywhere are running low, the word is. The Boy Scouts have done well in their rubber collecting work.

ASHVILLE

Visited both the grain elevators Tuesday afternoon and each was receiving newly threshed wheat from combine and thresher. Contained much moisture, it being necessary to pass it through the drier before placing in permanent storage. Met some of the farm people from the wet spots who told us that if it rained no more they would be threshing this Wednesday afternoon.

The Frank Grice melon patch of some ten acres down by the Cromley bridge has had a real bad time of it soaking up the flood waters of Walnut creek. But word given us today, not from Mr. Grice himself, is that the vines are coming through in rather good shape and a fairly good crop is in prospect.

The net receipts of the Fourth of July Ashville Day doings are not yet known, the expense bills not all being presented for payment. The regular scheduled meeting of the Community club is slated for Friday evening, July 31.

Word comes through from Canton that the Rev. Charles Besch, seriously ill in a hospital there some few weeks ago, is much improved and able to be about again. Celebrating a short time ago his 75th birthday and too, his fifty years in the ministry. He is an Ashville native.

Little Miss Marsha Lee McCaghren, the granddaughter of Stanley and Mrs. Smith and operated at Children's Hospital, Cincinnati a few weeks ago, is improving and will be removed to the home of her parents at 257 Rathbun Road, Columbus, soon.

Lee Sherman, son of Walden and Mrs. Sherman near Marcy, and stationed with the air force in California has been granted a 15-day furlough and is expected home here within the next few days. Charles and Mrs. Sherman are his grandparents.

Eugene Sines, son of Pratt Sines, is in the Army now and as a cook is sure plenty busy doing the cooking for 250 of the soldier boys down in Virginia.

Met a pair of the soldier boys here yesterday evening, very friendly and willing to talk. Down from the Lockbourne base. Said they liked our village because the people treated them kindly here. One from the state of Georgia, the other from Tennessee.

MRS. KATIE SHUMAKER, 87, IS DEAD AT CLEARPORT

Mrs. Katie Ann Shumaker, 87, died at 3 p. m. Tuesday at her home at Clearport, Fairfield county. She was a native of Madison township, Fairfield county, born January 8, 1855, a daughter of Isaac and Barbara Kerns Schaeffer.

Funeral rites will be conducted by the Rev. Jesse Lavender at 2 p. m. at the residence with burial in Clearport cemetery by the Defenbaugh funeral home.

Her survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Shelly Allen and Mrs. Jennie Stull at home, Mrs. Minnie Wagner of Lancaster; a son, Samuel, of near Lancaster; 12 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

SCHOOL CONFAB TO BE STAGED AT OHIO STATE

Pickaway county school officials have received notice of a conference to be held Thursday and Friday at Ohio State university for a discussion of current school problems.

The conference, to which the local educators have been invited, is sponsored by the college of education at Ohio State, by the Ohio Education Association, and the state department of education.

First day will be devoted largely to a consideration of an eight-year project in Progressive Education recently completed in 30 U. S. high schools, and its implications for the schools generally. On the second day the educators will devote their attention to current problems of school administration arising from the war.

In addition to many Ohioans who will appear on the program is William E. Scott, dean of students at the University of Chicago.

WAY TO HEALTH

ITHACA, N. Y. — Fudge, butterscotch pies, and six-layer cakes are on the way out, because of the sugar shortage, but better health is on the way in, according to New York State College of Home Economics food specialists. They declared that too many Americans have their foods and beverages too sweet, thus satisfying their appetites before eating enough protective foods. Cutting down sugar consumption will increase appetites and thus result in better health for the individual.

MANY OHIOANS RECEIVE HELP FROM OHIO BUC

Unemployed workers in the Columbus area received $664,763.10 of the $10,475,103 paid in benefits by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation during the first six months of 1942, according to R. L. Dudley, Ohio BUC representative.

Mr. Dudley, who represents the bureau in Pickaway, Delaware, Franklin, Madison and Union counties, said the six month benefit total was an increase of $155,379.10 compared with the same period in 1941 when local jobless received $496,384.00.

New claims filed from January 1 to June 30 this year numbered 10,500 in this area compared with 6,345 filed in the first six months of 1941. The total for the state was 140,421 in the first half of 1942, a gain of 42 percent over the 98,593 received in the comparable 1941 months.

In forwarding the statistical data for the first six months of 1942 and for June, Herschel C. Atkinson, administrator of the bureau, called Mr. Dudley's attention to the fact that the increased statewide benefits were largely due to the liberalizing provisions added to the unemployment compensation act last fall.

Benefit payments in this area in June totaled $72,511.76, a drop of 22.3 percent compared with

May. For the state the June benefits amounted to $1,216,113, a decrease of 12 percent under May when the total was $1,385,887.

New claims filed in this area during June numbered 1,095, 9.3 percent less than in May. New claims filed in the state last month total 15,254, a gain of nearly three percent over the previous month's total of 15,833.

HEROISM, SKILL OF AIR FORCE SAVED MIDWAY

Squadrons Of Army, Navy And Marine Corps Pilots Gave Lives To Block Japs

UNITS IN COOPERATION

Armada OF 100 Nipponese
Planes Broken Up By Headon Clash

WASHINGTON, July 15 — The heroism and skill of Navy, Army and Marine Corps pilots who scorned death in the battle of Midway today have written unforgettable pages in the history of warfare.

Those valiant flyers conclusively proved what the combined forces of the American fighting arm can do when striking in full battle force against strong enemy forces such as the Japanese aerial and naval armada that was met and crushed in the Pacific.

Whether it was the Army, Navy or Marine Corps squadrons that carried the attack to the enemy, their deeds of heroism all parallel in the mighty struggle that blazed out over heavy tolls of death and destruction on the invading Japanese forces.

Typical of these as revealed by the Navy department was the daring raid of one lone naval squadron commanded by Lieut. Comdr.
John Charles Waldron, of Fort Pierre, S. D. It was Torpedo Squadron No. 8 composed of 30 men and 15 planes which first contacted the enemy on the morning of June 4.

Without protection or support the squadron launched an effective attack so desperately opposed that only one member of the squadron and no planes came back.

Another was the naval squadron led by Lieut. Comdr. Clarence Wade McClusky Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y. Just 40 minutes after Waldron's squadron pressed home its attack at close range McClusky's planes were unloading bombs on the main enemy concentration of four carriers, two battleships, four to six cruisers and six destroyers.

It was the Marine Corps fighter squadrons that sped out to meet head-on the oncoming Japanese bomber hordes diving for Midway estimated at some 100 planes. It was these squadrons that broke up the Japanese formations and together with the Marine anti-aircraft crews saved Midway island from major damage in the raid that touched off the three day battle.

So determined was the thrust those flying Marines made at the enemy that few of the air group commanders returned from the fight.

One of these was Maj. Lofton R.
Henderson of Gary, Ind., who was last seen diving his blazing plane into the smokestack of a Japanese carrier. Another was Capt. Richard E. Fleming, of St. Paul, Minn., who scorned a parachute when winged by anti-aircraft and was last observed steering the wreck of his plane toward the enemy to score a bomb hit before his flaming ship crashed into the ocean.

It was also the Marines who,
early on the morning of June 4, sent out bombing expeditions of their own to join the Army and Navy in striking swift and staggering blows at the Japanese invading fleet.

Others who were "missing in action" were Major Floyd B.
Parks of Salisbury, Md., and Major Benjamin W. Norris, Coronado, Calif. They were squadron leaders who led the way in the Marines' fight, wing tip to wing tip with the Army and Navy to the Midway victory.

CARS HIT AT CORNER

Circleville police reported an accident at Court and Main streets
Tuesday afternoon. Left Lefko, 144 Watt street and Arthur Beatty, truck driver from Washington
C. H., were the two drivers involved. One of the cars missed the traffic signal, police said. The crash brought slight damage to the Lefko car, but none to the truck.

HOW AAA FIXES PARITY PRICES BEING OUTLINED

In answer to numerous requests as to how the parity price for farm products is formulated each year, the AAA for Pickaway county has released the following information on methods used in establishing these payment prices.
A base price is determined first. Where satisfactory data is available this is done by averaging the prices received by farmers for the 60 month period beginning August, 1909, and ending July, 1914. The average price of cotton during this period, for example, was 12.4 cents a pound, while corn averaged 64.2 cents a bushel and wheat averaged 88.4 cents a bushel.

Next the prices paid by farmers for 86 items used in family living and 88 items used in farm production are collected. These items include clothing, household supplies, food, furniture, building materials, gas, oil, tires, feed, farm machinery, fertilizers, general equipment and supplies and seed. The estimated quantity of each item used by the farmer is used to combine these prices into a simple index of costs of living that includes allowances for taxes and interest.

This procedure gives an overall index of 152 for the present year meaning that prices paid for farm products must be 152 percent greater than they were in 1909-1914 in order to have the same per unit purchasing power.

Third step in calculating parity prices is to adjust the base price by the index price. That is the base prices are multiplied by 1.52 to get the parity prices for crops during the 1942-1943 year. The parity price for cotton, for example, is 1.52 times 12.4 or 18.85; for corn, 1.52 times 64.2 or 97.6
cents a bushel; and for wheat, 1.52 times 88.4 or $134.4 a bushel.

DRAFT DODGERS?

The battle over the CCC made the headlines, but it wasn't the only row at the closed-door meeting of the Senate and House conference on the $1,066,000,000 appropriation for the Labor Department and Federal Security Agency.

There also was a hot blowup over a $7,500,000 item for $500-a-year government loans to students taking courses in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and other professions deemed essential to the war effort.

This proposal, sired by Dr. John W. Studebaker, ambitious chief of the U. S. Office of Education, got a rough reception from Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Representative Albert Engel of Michigan and others on the ground that it would encourage draft-dodging.

Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, chief advocate of the student loans, told the conferees:
"I've got a brother I've been helping through college, and I know what it costs. Most young fellows of draft age who are studying for professions are having to compress four years of study into three, and give up summer vacations during which they used to get jobs to help finance their education."

"That's one reason we need this money. Another is, the Army and Navy have been taking so many of our professional men that we must make sure of a sufficient number after the war."

"Hold on, Senator," broke in Engel. "Under the language of this bill as passed by the Senate, a young man embarking on a medical course will get $500 a year for seven years in the government, counting in three years of pre-medical training. Suppose the war is over three years from now. That young man can quit after completing his pre-medical course, and there's nothing to stop him from switching to another field which isn't essential."

"Yes, and he and many other students meantime will have been deferred from the draft," added Bridges. "A lot of parents who want to keep their sons out of the war will capitalize on this. I don't think we ought to encourage draft-dodging."

"Neither do I," retorted Russell. "You're making a mountain out of a mole hill. This appropriation won't have any such effect."
"I insist," replied Bridges stubbornly, "that if Congress approves this item in its present form, the government will be in the position of subsidizing draft-dodging. We will be deferring students and paying them at the same time.
You can't tell me that there won't be some slackers among those who will get the loans."

This argument proved effective.
The loan fund was cut to $5-

000,000 and loans were restricted to students in the last two years of college.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

During the stormy closed-door hearing on his budget before the Senate Appropriations committee,
Price Administrator Leon Henderson was bluntly told by several members that if he would dish out political jobs he could get the money he wants to avert ruinous wartime inflation. . . . The Army now is inducing draftees at the rate of 15,000 a day. . . . In order to obtain few supplies of rubber heels, shoe repairers now must turn in old ones. . . . Authorities are making preparation to handle the marketing of the bumper crop of hogs in "waves"; that is, spread the marketing over a certain period in order to prevent clogging up of transportation and packing facilities. Around 100,000,000 hogs are expected to be butchered this year.

ARMY WILL TRY BAHR, ARRESTED AS NAZI AGENT

NEW YORK, July 15—Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr, 29-year-old German-trained spy who was seized aboard the Drottningholm, will be turned over to the Army for military trial, federal authorities disclosed today.

The American honor student, who turned Nazi sympathizer while an exchange scholar in Hanover, Germany, now in Hudson county jail, at Jersey City, N. J., will be transferred to Army custody some time today.

The development was one of a number on the horizon today in the government's drive to round up spies, saboteurs, unregistered foreign agents and subversive axis groups in this country.

Also outstanding was the arrest of Jean Leonard Musa, friend and right-hand man of French Ambassador Henry-Haye, charged with failing to register as a foreign agent, and Washington Glendale Spiegelberg, a Berlin-born American draughtsman accused of illegally possessing blue-prints of America's most powerful warplane
—the Consolidated B-24 bomber.

THE TEST

IF ANYBODY hankers for a fine, big dose of discouragement about the war, this is the time for it. Hitler has started his big push. The valiant Russians are yielding ground and the Moscow supply line is cut. The Egyptian situation is uncertain. The Chinese are hard pressed. The Japs are having things their own way over a vast area. The Germans threaten to drive United Nations shipping from the northern route by which our Russian allies have got most of their help from America.

Well, "many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." That is, when the righteous are sure of their cause, as the United Nations are, and when they stand firm and marshal all their resources of spirit and intelligence and material to win!

Foresighted people knew this test was coming and are not surprised. Britain, that has stood and fought so valiantly, can fight on. Russia has bred a race of heroes who, like the British, can "take it" and, in due time, can pay it back. American might and determination are rising and will not fail. "He that endureth unto the end shall be saved."

SAVING THE NATION

PRESIDENT Roosevelt says that his task is not to save tires or rubber or cars, but the nation.

Thus history repeats. In the Civil War, Lincoln, before issuing the Emancipation Proclamation, was repeatedly urged to abolish slavery at one stroke. Horace Greeley, the famous editor, was particularly insistent on this course. Finally Lincoln, in a public letter to Greeley, said:

"If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it, and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others, also I would. What I do about slavery and the colored race I do because I believe it helps to save the Union, and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would help to save the Union. I shall do less whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause."

Both presidents have the root of the matter. Saving the nation comes first.

It's now an open-and-shut question whether congressmen with military experience are more useful to their country when talking or fighting.

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

CAMPAIGNING for seats in the senate and house of representatives at the coming congressional election is exceedingly slow in warming up this year.

It might have been expected that the war would make it especially gingers, but it appears to have had the opposite effect. If the conflict had been progressing highly satisfactorily from the stand point of the democracies, including our own, the Democrats undoubtedly would be ballyhoosing our successes, but they can't very well do so in the face of the present situation. The Republicans, on the opposite hand, can't afford to be overly critical lest they give an impression of opposing the administration in the midst of a great national emergency at a time when it's every good citizen's duty to give it its fullest support regardless of party considerations.

For the G. O. P. to win enough seats to give it a senate majority is of course impossible, since the senators are elected only one-third at a time and the Democrats have so wide an existing numerical superiority that they'd still have a small one even if the Republicans triumphed in every 1942 contest, which they'll be far from doing, naturally. They'll be heartily gratified if they score three or four victories, and corresponding gains to their own alignment of today will fully suit the Democrats.

Small Turnover Likely

The representatives being chosen all at once, the lower house can be flipped, theoretically, although that would involve an enormous and highly improbable turnover.

The Democrats would appreciate, say, half a dozen representative additions, as a popular expression of confidence, and that many on their side would pretty well satisfy the Republicans, too, just as a token to them. The fact is that I don't think the G. O. P. would like control of the representatives' chamber at this juncture; it would force 'em into the position of an opposition party. That's a role that they can't afford to be identified with, no matter how the war develops. If we pick up and come out all right, they'd be accused of having delayed the happy outcome and, in the event of the other unbelievable sequel, they'd be blamed for it.

The anti-administration element does make a modicum of capital out of the charge that the New Dealers, by over-concentrating upon economic policies, neglected preparations for national defense, and that that neglect's what we're paying for now. It's a point that it's premature to argue as yet, though.

Now, I'm discussing what party leaders say in Washington, where such matters are discussed discreetly.

Actual candidates, out on the so-called hustings, perhaps are more outspoken. A party leader looks on into the future. A candidate's first thought is to be elected

In November—not for 1944 or some such time.

It seems that the candidates are concentrating mostly on the taxes the public'll have to be paying in 1943 and subsequently. Suppose one of 'em is a Republican, appealing to the voters, as an opponent of the just cast ballot for the levies Washington's legislators at the moment. Those voters'll be precisely beginning to sense the pinch as they go to the polls Nov. 3, and it may influence 'em.

Rubber Stamps

There also has been plenty of talk to the purport that our current congress consists of a lot of rubber stamp members, who've done just as they're told—and look at Pearl Harbor and the Aleutians and Axis submarines off our Atlantic coast and the outlook in Egypt and on the Russian front and in China!

And now we're footing the bill for it! That'll be the candidate's story.

November will tell what the rank-and-file of the electorate'll say.

My guess is that the party leadership will do the dictating—that the average voter will go on record as his recognized boss advises him. That is, I believe he'll do it next November. I'm not so sure he will in 1944, when his tax really has begun to pinch him—and especially if we've had some more bad military luck in the meantime.

Oh, yes, some prophets forecast a 10 or a 12-year war ahead!

In that event, heaven knows how we'll vote in the late 1940's or 1950's. But who anticipates it?

NEW ANTI-INFLATION PLANS

WASHINGTON—At their regular weekly conference last week, the President gave Congressional leaders some important news on new moves he plans to head off inflation.

They also got a sizzling earful as to what he thinks of the House farm bloc sniping at the anti-inflation program.

The President told his leaders that he was planning to order a nationwide survey of prices, wages, savings, investments, installment buying and all other factors involved in the inflation picture, preparatory to asking Congress for additional legislation.

The survey, he said, will be made to find out "just where we stand," and will be conducted within the next two months by the Office of Price Administration and other government agencies.

One anti-inflation step Congress will be asked to approve, the President said, will be the granting of subsidies to manufacturers to enable them to keep within government price ceilings until such time as increased labor, transportation and raw material costs are adjusted.

Subsidies have worked out well in England and Canada, the President explained, and have prevented many smaller concerns—caught in the middle of higher production costs and enforced price ceilings—from being driven out of business.

"What about wage stabilization?" one Congressional leader asked.

"I think it is absolutely essential that wages in the higher brackets be frozen," FDR replied, adding that the War Labor Board soon would take some action in this direction.

After denouncing the House farm bloc the President dropped some acid comments regarding the substitute Agriculture Department appropriation bill which banned the sale of government grain stocks at below parity prices. Farm bloc Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri and his cohorts had railroaded this through the House, and the President described it as an attempt to wipe out all controls on inflation. "Had the Senate agreed to that bill," he warned, "I would have had no other course but to veto it."

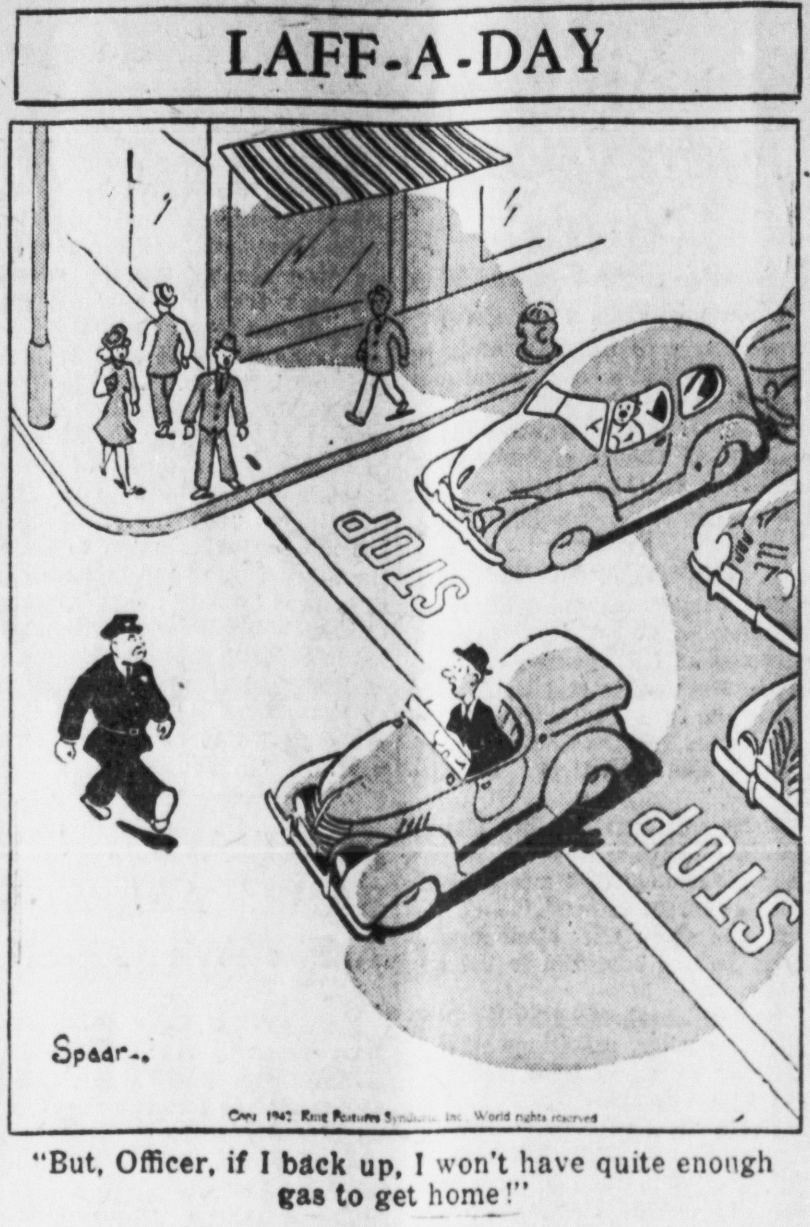

MRS. CARAWAY'S CHAMPAGNE

Navy men always hold their breath when a ship is christened. They have a superstition that if the bottle of champagne does not break, bad luck awaits the ship.

So when demure Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, only lady of the Senate, christened the submarine 'Sawbuck' at Portsmouth, N. H., it was tactfully suggested that she take a few "practice strokes" with a wooden bottle. However, when the big moment came, motherly Mrs. Caraway walked up to the bow of the 'Sawbuck' and bashed the real bottle of champagne with such force that she doused both herself and Rear Admiral Thomas Withers.

"Splendid!" commented Withers. "You're a lot stronger than I thought. Most

No Reason To Fear Use of Germs as Secret Weapons

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE FEARS that are frequently expressed, of a secret weapon consisting of the spraying of germs by enemy action, are not based on very sound or extensive knowledge. Modern hygiene is competent to protect both the civilian population and the armed forces against most of the types of infection now known—in fact, it is part of the duty of the Sanitary Corps to carry out measures of such protection.

In 1880 it might have been possible to infect a camp or a city water supply with Asiatic cholera or typhoid fever but now the water supply is automatically tested and preventive measures are put in operation, so that even if an enemy infected the supply, this would not constitute a menace.

Very Vague Dream

The dream frequently exploited of an enemy dropping bombs loaded with germs gets very vague when it begins to describe what kind of germs they are. It would be possible to infect the ground with the germs of tetanus or lockjaw, but all the armed forces are protected against this by the use of toxoid.

We know very little about the conditions under which such germs as those that cause pneumonia are propagated and where or how they rest before infection starts. We probably have as much pneumonia around us all the time now as it is possible to have and losing additional carriers or additional concentrations of dust containing pneumonia germs would not add any menace to life.

Difficulties of Success

Besides that, scattering germs over the earth for a successful operation would have to take into consideration the climate and the kind of earth on which the germs were sprayed. For instance, it would be possible to spray a fungus called coccidioides and this might infect both the armed forces and the civilian population, but the trouble is this particular fungus only grows in one very restricted spot on the face of the United States and probably on the face of the globe, which is the San Joaquin Valley in California, and it wouldn't do any harm to spray it on the ground in Australia and the Western Front because it would die out.

The spread of such diseases as typhus or the plague depends on the use of animal carriers but here again the sanitation department is constantly on the alert to see that troops are deloused and that rats are controlled.

Idea Impractical

So, so far as any germs known to us now are concerned, the idea of using them as a secret weapon is completely impractical. If it were possible to use the last-discovered human fungus disease which is about 99 per cent fatal (histoplasmosis), we might have some reason to fear, but so far this fungus has been found only in dying human beings and in one dog. It is found in dust and in the ground in a good many parts of the United States, but to date the number of cases that have been affected totals only 60, so it does not appear to be an agent which is sufficiently communicable to worry about.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. A. R.—Is it all right to use saccharin to sweeten coffee during the sugar rationing or is it harmful in any way?

Answer: Saccharin is not harmful and will sweeten coffee with very much higher potency than sugar itself. A great many people have used saccharin over many years without having any harm done to them.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"WILL YOU do it—act as my hostess, Dian?"

Dian shook her head. "Sorry, Jerome," she said. "That's what I tried to tell you. I've got another engagement for Thursday night. Claire Lester's invited me to a dinner she's giving at the club." She was quick to see Jerome's disappointment, and said, "I have an idea!"

"What is it?" Jerome wanted to know.

"Let Aunt Martha be your hostess!" She waved Jerome to silence as he started to speak. Aunt Martha's wonderful at that sort of thing—much better than I am. Besides, I happen to know she has a perfectly scrumptious evening dress she'd adore wearing."

"But, Dian, my dear," said Jerome, "you know I hope to make you my wife some day, and—"

"Why, Jerome!" Dian said, pretending to be surprised.

"We'll go into that later," Jerome said. "But what I mean is that having you act as my hostess at the country club would give you some—er—experience, and let me see if you have the—er—ability."

"To fill the place of a banker's wife?" said Dian. "Is that it?"

"Well—yes—in a way."

Dian laughed. "Jerome, one could never accuse you of being a wild and eager lover," she said. "Frankly, I don't relish the idea of being tested, so to speak. So I think you'd better not count on me."

"But there's so little time to get anyone else," said Jerome.

"Aunt Martha's in the car," said Dian. "I'll send her in, if you wish."

"Very well," said Jerome in a resigned tone. "And you can unload the candy also."

"Thanks," said Dian. She walked to the door. She paused there, looking back at Jerome. "And another thing, Jerome," she said. "I think Aunt Martha's far better fitted to run a banker's mansion than I am."

Jerome frowned. "That," he said somewhat coldly, "is a matter for me to decide."

"Yes, I suppose it is," Dian said. "Only I just thought I'd tell you." She went on out. At the car, she said, "Aunt Martha, Jerome wants to see you."

"What about?" Miss Martha asked.

"Something private, I gather," Dian replied. Then, to Bill, "Want to help me take this candy in?"

"Certainly!" said Bill.

When they were through, Miss Martha said, "You two go on out to the farm now. I'll walk home." She drew Dian to one side and whispered, "I like him, Dian. He's a charming man—not a bit the smart Alecky type I expected, his being a New York artist and all that."

Dian smiled. "He is nice," she said. "I'm glad you like him, Aunt Martha. Are you sure you don't mind my taking him out to the farm again?"

"Of course not! Heaven knows, if he can turn any of those paintings into cash, he's a wonder," Miss Martha stepped into the doorway of the bank. "Oh, yes, be sure and stop off at the house and get him some of that candy."

"Yes, Aunt Martha," Dian said. Then, joining Bill, she said, "My aunt likes you."

"Good!" said Bill. "I like her also."

"She was surprised to find a New York artist such a nice man."

"What did she expect?"

"A smart Alecky!" said Dian. They both laughed.

A little later, with some candy in a paper bag between them, Dian and Bill drove on out to the farm. Once more they went up into the attic, and once more Bill looked over Grandfather Weston's paintings. He found two more which he thought had possibilities.

"I like this one of the rail fence and the calf," he said.

"Grandfather painted that after he had his stroke," Dian said. "I rolled him down to the pasture in a wheeled chair."

"The other one is good, too," Bill went on. "But I'll not do anything about either of them until I hear from Andrew Williams."

"Who's he?"

"Andrew's the agent who sells things for me," Bill explained. "I sent him the painting of the little girl under the apple tree."

"Oh, I hope he'll like it!"

"So do I. And I rather think he will. Andrew may not be exactly an art critic, but he knows commercial values. He's sold a number of my paintings to the calendar people, and I've a feeling he'll agree with me that your Grandfather Weston's painting has fine possibilities along that line."

"It was awfully nice of you to go to so much trouble," Dian said. "I can't tell you how grateful I am."

"Don't try. I was glad to do it. As I told you, I've fallen in love with the little girl."

"She WOULD look sweet on a calendar," Dian said. "I've thought a lot about it, and I can just see her hanging over desks and kitchen stoves." She smiled. Since she doesn't look very much like me, I can feel that way without seeming to be vain, can't I?"

"Of course you can."

"Shall we go down now?" Dian said. "Perhaps you'd like to look over the plantation—or what's left of it."

"Yes, I would," Bill said. And when they were walking down through the rear of the grounds, he said, "Maybe you'd rent the place to me some time. It's a place I could come to, to relax and do a different sort of painting from what I'm doing now."

"Do you really think you'd like living out here?"

"Yes, I do. I told Claire last night that I thought I could be happy in Ardendale—under the right circumstances."

"What did Claire say to that?"

"She said she felt the same way. Only she said if she were married to the right man."

"Oh!" said Dian.

Claire . . . Claire . . . Darn Claire! Always intruding and spoiling things.

"I've often tried to rent the place," she went on. "But so few people around here want such a big house and one that's so far from everything."

"Far?" said Bill. "Why, my child, it's nearly in town, even if it is plumb in the country." He paused, and pointed. "What's that over there? It looks like a tomb."

"It is," said Dian. "Or rather, it's the family burial vault. Grandfather and a number of other Westons are sleeping there."

"I've often read about such places," Bill said, interested, "but I never saw one before."

"Lots of southern families have their own vaults like this one, or private burying grounds. Come on, and I'll show you."

Contract bridge was played during the evening. Mr. Rowland and Mrs. Weldon winning prizes for scores.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weldon, 610 South Court street, were hosts at dinner party Monday complementing Mr. and Mrs. Rowland and several informal affairs will honor them before they leave at the end of the week.

Piano Recital
A capacity audience heard the excellent program Tuesday of the senior pupils of Mrs. Leon Van Vleet in the third period of her annual piano recital. Outstanding in the many fine selections were those of four boys, James Hill, Paul Helwigen, Robert and Glenn G. McCoy, and the playing from memory of Nell Louise Bumgarner, Annette Thomas, Ann Bradley and Harriet Heffner.

The many lovely garden flowers made the studio a colorful setting for the affair.

The program included two piano solos, "In a Persian Market", Ket-sobe, and "Dance of the Castanets," Brown, by Nell Louise Bumgarner; "To a Wild Rose", MacDowell, and "Solfeggietto", Bach, Annette Thomas; duet, "Amaryllis", Ghys, Gloria Reid and Mrs. Van Vleet.

"Meadow Dance", Johnson, and "La Paloma", Yradier, Doris Hulse; duet, "Fireflies Frolic", Spencer, Joan Cook and Mrs. Van Vleet; "Rustle of Spring", Sinding, and "Romance", Rubenstein, Patsy Winks; "Il Travatore", Dorn, Polly Kerns.

Duet, "The Camel Train", Baines, Robert McCoy and Mrs. Van Vleet; "Senorita Mia", Siegel, Robert McCoy; "Black Eyes", Thompson, Ermalou Younk; "Tchaikowsky's Concert No. 1", Elizabeth Hoffman; duo, "Tumble-Town Cake Walk", Weybright, Paul Helwigen and Mrs. Van Vleet; "By the Sea", Schubert, Marjorie Dreisbach.

Duo, "Colonel Bogey", Alford, Marjorie Dreisbach and Mrs. Van Vleet; "Love Dreams", Brown, and "Valse Impromptu", Upcraft, Glenn G. McCoy; "Wandering Sprite", Engelbracht, and "Spooks and Shadows", Adams, Ann Bradley; duet, "Hungary", Koelling, Mrs. Carl Burger and Mrs. Van Vleet.

Whirlaway Fights Jinx Seeking Record Purse

BOSTON, July 15 — Almost $45,000 and the all-time record for track earnings will ride today on the chestnut nose of Whirlaway, four-year-old son of Calumet farm.

Starting from the favored out-side post against seven other con-tenders in the mile and furlong Massachusetts Handicap, Whirl-away will attempt to top Seabis-cuit's income of $43,730. If he takes first place, Whirlaway will prance off the Suffolk Downs oval late today with a new record of $455,336 in earnings.

Seabiscuit collected his "pile" over six years in 89 races. Whirl-away has been running only three years and will be starting his forty-sixth race today.

Apache, Attention Liked
Though Whirlly has been estab-lished an even-money favorite, most of the "win bettors" are get-ting behind Apache and Atten-tion.

Belair Stud's Apache, who dis-played a surprising burst of speed in coping the Empire City Handi-cap in record time Saturday, will be carrying only 107 pounds. Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention drew

Canning Sugar Limitation Eased By Rationing Rule

10 Pounds Per Person Plan Altered; Three Employees Of Office Approved

J. O. Eagleson, office manager of the county rationing board, released information Wednesday on increases in canning sugar allotments for local residents. In the past sugar has been given on the basis of ten pounds per person. This has been contrary to federal regulations, but has been done to prevent a rush on small supplies in the hands of grocers.

Regulations for canning sugar are now that the board will allow one pound for every four quarts of fruit canned. To date the board has limited the certificates to ten pounds per person in order to safeguard grocers' supplies. In many cases this amount will not be sufficient to handle canning needs and the board is authorizing additional sugar for families intending to can more than 40 quarts per person.

A request has been made that all persons who have already received their canning allotments but who wish more prevent a rush on the office staff in the city building by coming at intervals, whenever they have something to can. In applying for the increase in sugar a family head must show that the first allotment of ten pounds a person has already been used for canning and that there is a desire to can additional fruit. A certificate will then be issued for more sugar on the basis of one pound for each four quarts that will be canned, over and above the 40 quarts a person already subscribed for.

Mr. Eagleson has received approval from the civil service commission on all three members of the staff. He, Mrs. John McGinnis and Mrs. Leona Reigel are all employees of the federal government under civil service.

He has also received a notice that tomatoes are not considered as a fruit and no sugar can be allotted for their packing.

NAZIS STRIVE FOR KNOCKOUT AT VORONEZH

In official Washington circles reaction to this plea was grave. Responsible quarters regard the Russian situation as extremely serious but by no means hopeless. Even if Rostov and Stalingrad fall before the mighty German offensive, they feel Russia can continue the struggle. So long as they avoid encirclement and destruction of their armies Hitler has not won the battle of Russia, they pointed out.

Collapse May Force Risks

If the situation takes a sudden turn for the worse, it was conceded that Britain and America would consider themselves compelled to take the risks involved in opening up a land offensive in Europe, regardless of whether preparations for such a move were completed.

Of a more cheerful nature was the Navy's official report on the battle of Midway, and the confidently expressed opinion that as a result of the destruction and damaging of at least 20 Japanese warships, the American Navy now has virtual control of the Pacific from Alaska to Australia.

Ten Japanese warships, including four carriers were listed as sunk, and ten or more, including three battleships were damaged. American losses were one destroyer sunk and the aircraft carrier Yorktown disabled by bomb and torpedo hits. But presumably the Yorktown reached port and will see more action.

Japanese plane losses were 275, and 4,800 men were killed or drowned. American losses, according to the communiqué, were 33 planes and 307 officers and men.

While the number of ships did not compare with the 37 destroyed or damaged at Coral Sea, the Japanese Midway losses embraced more vital units of its navy.

Rommel Attacks Again

Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched another attack on British lines at Tel El Elsa (the Hill of Jesus), and fighting is apparently still raging in this area, according to a middle east command communiqué.

Further south much patrol activity was reported, and allied planes ranged over the whole battle area. A raid in force was carried out on Tobruk by medium bombers. They left numerous big fires at the axis-held Libyan supply port.

The new axis attack was launched last evening and fighting continued into the night. Rommel was reported suffering heavy losses of men and equipment.

were so high as to "sign the death warrant of thousands and thousands of small corporations who are injured rather than aided by the war."

Foreseeing widespread unemployment as a result of these excessive taxes, totalling 45 percent of normal income, Knutson declared, "It is our duty to write the best sort of tax bill possible, and this we have failed to do."

Citing the huge war expenditures being made by the federal government, the committee report stated that even with the additional taxes, the deficit for the fiscal year 1943 would approximate $52,000,000 and might rise above this figure should war expenditures go above present estimates.

The diagram showed that on June 3 a gigantic Jap occupation force protected by warships was sighted approaching Midway island from the west while the next day a Japanese carrier force was seen steaming toward the outpost from the northwest.

Before these twin invasion armadas could converge on Midway, the American carrier force swept in from the Aleutian area, split the Jap force in two and U. S. Army, Navy and Marine Corps pilots in land and carrier based planes riddled the enemy fleet with shells and torpedoes in day and night attacks.

Although the Coral Sea battle resulted in the sinking and damaging of 37 Japanese warships and auxiliary vessels, the Midway island victory was greater in scope and importance because more important units of the Jap fleet were destroyed and crippled.

In the Coral Sea, one enemy aircraft carrier was sunk and another damaged, while most of the other Nipponese vessels were cruisers, destroyers and transport and supply ships. In this engagement, the United States lost the aircraft carrier Lexington, one destroyer and a naval tanker.

Four Carriers Down

At Midway Jap casualties were: four carriers, the Kaga and Akagi, each of 26,900 tons, and the Soryu and Hiryu, each of 10,500 tons; three battleships damaged, one severely; two heavy cruisers, the Mogami and the Mikuma, each 8,500 tons, sunk, and three others damaged; one light cruiser damaged, three destroyers sunk and several damaged, and at least three transports damaged, one or more sunk.

American casualties were listed as 92 officers and 215 enlisted men (Army, Navy and Marine Corps) lost, the destroyer Hammann torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine, and the 19,900-ton Yorktown "put out of action."

NUTRITION experts say that national defense begins in the kitchen, with the proper cooking of nourishing food for American families.

A new Magic Chef Certified Performance Gas Range makes vitamin and mineral-saving cookery simple and effortless. Magic Chef Hi-Lo burner valves provide a tiny simmering flame for "waterless cooking" to preserve precious food elements. And they furnish fast heat when you want it, too.

Scientific cooking-control helps avoid waste of food. Automatic features and easy cleaning saves you time. Efficient burners cut down fuel consumption. Modern streamlined design makes Magic Chef a joy to behold in any kitchen.

Dozens of other features make Magic Chef the range for you to own in 1942! Come in and see these beautiful, efficient new ranges today!
